ELIGIBILITY RULES

The Southwest Military Challenge is an event for military members, dependents and DoD civilians.

This event is open to all US and allied military branches.

THE EVENT

The Southwest Wilderness Challenge is an eight-stage race, held over two days. The four-person team format is designed to foster a sense of team spirit, camaraderie and competition. This race includes a trail run, whitewater rafting, a climbing wall, mountain biking plus a whitewater swim. Skill level requirements for this competition is low to medium. All activities are either guided or require relatively low technical proficiency. That said, all participants should train for the running and the biking portions of the race as these are typically the most physically challenging events. Team members should be competent swimmers.
